Client – legal entity or individual contracting legal services from the Firm and a party to the Agreement;

2. Services

- 2.1. The Firm has agreed to advise and represent the Client as legal counsel in connection with the Client's business affairs and to perform legal services at the Client's request from time to time. The engagement letter and further communication with a Client will normally provide more detailed information regarding the particular Client's case or project and the scope of services provided (hereinafter the Assignment). The Firm's role is to provide legal advice only and not (unless the Firm and the Client agree otherwise in writing) to provide advice on the commercial or financial wisdom of any matter, or advice on valuation, accounting and tax matters.

3. Client's Instructions

- 3.1. The Client will promptly provide the Firm with complete and accurate information in a timely manner as necessary for the provision of legal services. The Client will provide documents and guidance necessary for the performance of the Assignment, and will co-operate with the Firm as necessary. The Firm in any event shall rely on the completeness and accuracy of the information and documents received from the Client.
- 3.2. The Firm will assume that any of the Client's directors or employees who give an Assignment to the Firm are authorised to do so and that the Firm may act on an Assignment (including given orally).
- 3.3. Upon completion of the Assignment the Firm has no obligation to supplement, change or amend any information, opinion or legal document of any type or form provided to the Client earlier in the course of performance of the Assignment, due to new knowledge or any other reason, without new instruction by the Client. This principle shall also apply in situations where applicable legislation or jurisprudence of courts changes, new circumstances emerge or new knowledge is otherwise conferred upon the Firm.

4. Fees

- 4.1. The Client shall pay to the Firm a fee for the provided services. VAT shall be added to fees charged by the Firm where required by applicable law. Unless otherwise agreed, the fee is calculated according to the time spent by the Firm's legal staff on the matter of the Client. The Firm's hourly rates shall be indicated in the engagement letter, Firm's proposal, e-mail or other documents, exchanged with the Client. The Firm reviews hourly rates annually. The Firm may change its rates by giving e-mail notification to the Client one month in advance, whereupon the Client may decline services at those new rates.

- 4.2. If legal staff of the Firm is requested to work away from the office, then the actual working time as well as travel time will be billed at the applicable hourly rates.
- 4.3. The Client will also compensate various expenses incurred by the Firm while providing legal services as indicated in the engagement letter. 5. Invoicing

- 5.1. The Client shall settle with the Firm against the submitted invoice and statement of services usually on a monthly basis.
- 5.2. The Client shall pay the Firm's invoice within 15 days of the invoice issue date. Default interest of 0.05 % is charged on the outstanding amount for every day of delay. All payments made by the Client under this Agreement are payable free of taxes, duties or deductions of any kind (e.g., withholding tax, fees for bank services or other). Criticisms or claims as to the scope and quality of the services rendered by the Firm or the invoice amount shall be delivered by the Client to the Firm by e-mail no later than within 15 days of the invoice issue date. After this period, it is considered that the services were rendered properly. If the Client does not pay the invoice timely, the Firm may initiate debt recovery procedures or assign claim for the debt to a third party. In the event that the Firm accepts funds intended for the Client into the deposit account (such as amounts collected for the Client's benefit in the execution process or on any other basis), before disbursing the funds to the Client from the deposit account, the Firm has the right to write off and deduct the amounts owed by the Client according to the outstanding invoices issued by the Firm to the Client.

6. Confidentiality

- 6.1. The Firm shall guarantee complete confidentiality of the information provided by the Client in order for the Firm to perform the Client's Assignments and non-disclosure thereof to any third parties, except in cases where such disclosure is required by law or the courts or where such information is used for performance of the Client's Assignments. The Firm shall remain bound by this confidentiality obligation with respect to the confidential information after termination of this Agreement.
- 6.2. The Firm and its associated offices in other jurisdictions are long-standing providers of legal services for a multitude of clients in various industries and the Client understands that the Firm or its associated offices in other jurisdictions may have rendered, are rendering or will render in the future services to other clients whose interests may potentially be in conflict with the Client's interests. The Firm's obligations to avoid any direct conflict of interests shall apply only in respect of each particular Assignment or project of the Client in one particular jurisdiction as set out by local Bar Association rules during the validity term of this Agreement and shall not apply after its expiration.

Upon termination or expiration of the Agreement, all services rendered and expenses incurred by the Firm on the Client's account up to the date of termination or expiration shall be promptly paid by the Client.
- 9.2. The liability of the Firm, including its attorneys, patent attorneys, lawyers, employees and advisors is limited to triple amount of fees paid by the Client for legal services provided in any
